The Pig Race Day

Watch the Bacon Streaking!

Possibly the best example of team work and fun, the great team race day combines the thrill of winning at the races with the fun of a series of team activities suitable for all ages and ability. The basic idea of the day is for teams to earn fun money by winning team challenges. The money is then used to place bets on our very own pink fluffy racing pigs! Each pig has its own pedigree, racing form and betting odds and it's a team decision where to place the bet. There will be heats and a final, and the team with the most money wins! Activities can be selected to suit the venue and time of year, and can include mental challenge, initiative games and even African drum and

Many activity options, examples include; -

Minefield

Armed with three planks and a brief, the team set off to cross the deadly booby trapped minefield. Sometimes the planks reach the safe islands, and sometimes they don't. Good planning needed here

Nuclear Waste

Remember Die Hard 3? This was a challenge for Bruce Willis—a problem of logic and skill—split the nuclear waste accurately and thus render it safe for storage. This challenge is against the clock—only those with a clear head will survive.....

Get with the Beat

Everyone has a natural rhythm in them and we will bring it out with this session! The team is encouraged by an instructor who will lead initially and then ensure that the team finds their own beat. They are given coaching and practice time before the finale—their very own live performance!

Ski Race

Race across the swamp using the special swamp skis. In addition, the team is shown the plans for a radio transmitter that has to be built accurately on the opposite side of the swamp. The team that communicates well is certain to succeed!

Aqua Swap

All you have to do here is move some water from one bucket to another—simple, huh! There are a few restrictions however, and this means that the whole team must work together to get a good result. There is a strict time limit, and the pressure's on to complete and be home in time for tea and medals.....

Egg Launch

Given a limited amount of equipment, the teams must build a launcher to fire an egg the furthest distance. The team are given the kit and have to erect their launcher and be ready to fire within 20 minutes. Some eggs go a long way—some barely cross the line, and others go backwards!

Castle Plan

The teams have to rebuild a perfect copy of the castle they are given. However the catch is that they are blind folded. They must complete it the quickest possible time. It's great test in communication skills.
